The proposed bill is a bad idea. Prohibiting trading options in IRA accounts amounts to the same overregulation in the name of investor/taxpayer protection as we've seen before. Many people including me have educated themselves to trade options in their IRAs to help supplement their investments and incomes in retirement. The proposed bill would only further threaten the viability of doing so and actually Social Security, not help it or its current and future recipients avoid financial trouble. Please leave well enough alone and trust the taxpayer to do things in his or her own best interests.

Thanks. You.
